DIVIDEND, JAN'Y 1, 1868,

FORTY PER CENT. UPON ALL POLICIES THAT have been in force four years, and payable on the anniversaries of the renewals of said policies

This Company in declaring its Dividends does so using THE PERCENTAGE SYSTEM, thus each insurer whether he is a rich man or a poor man, a prominent citizen or an humble citizen shares alike

PREMIUM SYSTEM.

CASH, when required. NOTES ARE, HOWEVER TAKEN to accommodate the Insurer in paying his Premiums, thus showing the confidence of the Company in its ability to declare Dividends that will eventually Cancel the Notes

How different this is from a Cash Company who exact all Cash, under the plea that it is unsafe to grant this indulgence to a policy holder, when he is unable to pay his renewal premium

REMEMBER

That the "OLD MANHATTAN" never assumes or promises Extravagant Dividends to induce insurers to come and insure with them Their Dividends in the past have always been equal to all well managed and first class Companies, and they can offer the records of the past as an evidence of the future It never vilifies the character of other Companies to accumulate business THE MANHATTAN'S oldest insurers are its best advocates. The business of the Company is conducted with

ECONOMY!

This is an evidence of careful management and a promise of Large Dividends in future

From the following table taken from the New York Insurance Reports of 1867 it will be seen that our percentage of expenses to receipts are very much less than any Companies enumerated below

Constitutionality of the Reconstruction Acts

SPEECH OF SENATOR MORTON OF INDIANA, DELIVERED IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES, JANUARY 21, 1868.

Mr. President If I had not been referred to by my honorable friend from Wisconsin [Mr. Doolittle] in the debate yesterday I should not desire to speak on this question especially at this time I fear that I shall not have the strength to say what I wish to.

The issue here to-day is the same which prevails throughout the country which will be the issue of this canvass, and perhaps for years to come To repeat what I have had occasion to say elsewhere, it is between two paramount ideas, each struggling for the supremacy One is that the war to suppress the rebellion was a right and just one on our part, that the rebels forfeited their civil and political rights and can only be restored to them upon such conditions as the nation may prescribe for its future safety and prosperity The other idea is, that the rebellion was not sinful but was right that those engaged in it forfeited no rights, civil or political, and have a right to take charge of their State government and be restored to their representation in Congress just as if there had been no rebellion and nothing had occurred. The immediate issue before the Senate now is between the existing State governments established under the policy of the President of the United States in the rebel States and the plan of reconstruction presented by Congress

When a surveyor first enters a new territory he endeavors to ascertain the exact latitude and longitude of a given spot, and from that can safely begin his survey and so I will endeavor to ascertain a proposition in this debate upon which both parties are agreed, and start from that proposition. That proposition is, that at the end of the war, in the spring of 1865, the rebel States were without State governments of any kind The loyal State governments existing at the beginning of the war had been overturned by the rebels the rebel State governments erected during the war had been overturned by our armies, and at the end of the war there were no governments of any kind existing in those States This fact was recognized distinctly by the President of the United States in his proclamation under which the work of reconstruction was commenced in North Carolina in 1865, to which I beg leave to refer. The others were mere copies of this proclamation. In that proclamation he says

> And whereas the rebellion, which has been waged by a portion of the people of the United States against the properly constituted authorities of the Government thereof, in the most violent and revolting form but whose organized and armed forces have now been almost entirely overcome has in its revolutionary progress deprived the people of the State of North Carolina of all civil government

Here the President must be allowed to speak for his party, and I shall accept this as a proposition agreed upon on both sides that at the end of the war there were no governments of any kind existing in those States

The fourth section of the fourth article of the Constitution declares that "the United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a republican form of government." This provision contains a vast, undefined power that has never yet been ascertained a great supervisory power given to the United States to enable them to keep the States in their orbits, to preserve them from revolution, anarchy and rebellion The measure of power thus conferred upon the Government of the United States can only be determined by that which is requisite to guarantee and maintain in each State a legal and republican form of government Whatever power, therefore, may be necessary to enable the Government of the United States thus to maintain in each State a republican form of government is conveyed by this provision.

Now, Mr. President when the war ended, and these States were found without governments of any kind, the jurisdiction of the United States, under this provision of the Constitution, at once attached, the power to reorganize State governments, to use the common word, to reconstruct to maintain and guarantee republican State governments in those States at once attached under this provision Upon this proposition there is also a concurrence of the two parties The President has distinctly recognized the application of this clause of the Constitution He has recognized the fact that its jurisdiction attached when those States were found without republican State governments, and he himself claimed to act under this clause of the Constitution I will read the preamble of the President's proclamation

> Whereas the fourth section of the fourth article of the Constitution of the United States declares that the United States shall guarantee to every State in the Union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion and domestic violence and whereas the President of the United States is by the Constitution made Commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy, as well as chief civil executive officer of the United States and is bound by solemn oath faithfully to execute the office of President of the United States and to take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and whereas the rebellion which has been waged by a portion of the people of the United States against the properly constituted authorities of the Government thereof in the most violent and revolting form but whose organized and armed forces have now been almost entirely overcome has, in its revolutionary progress deprived the people of the State of North Carolina of all civil government and whereas it becomes necessary and proper to carry out and enforce the obligations of the United States to the people of North Carolina in securing them in the enjoyment of a republican form of government

I read this, Mr. President, for the purpose of showing that the President of the United States, in his policy of reconstruction, started out with a distinct recognition of the applicability of this clause of the Constitution, and that he based his system of reconstruction upon it. It is true that he recites in this proclamation that he is Commander in chief of the Army of the United States but at the same time he puts his plan of reconstruction not upon the exercise of the military power which is called to its aid, but on the execution of the guaranty provided by the clause of the Constitution to which I have referred. He appoints a Governor for North Carolina and for these other States, the office being civil in its character, but military in its effects This Governor has all the power of one of the district commanders and, in fact, far greater power than was conferred upon General Pope or General Sheridan or any general in command of a district For it is further provided

> That the military commander of the department, and all officers and persons in the military and naval service, aid and assist the said provisional Governor in carrying into effect this proclamation.

We are then agreed upon the second proposition, that the power of the United States to reconstruct and guarantee republican forms of government at once applied when these States were found in the condition in which they were at the end of the war Then, sir, being agreed upon these two propositions, we are brought to the question as to the proper form of exercising this power and by whom it shall be exercised The Constitution says that "the United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a republican form of government." By the phrase "United States" here is meant the Government of the United States The United States can only act through the Government, and the clause would mean precisely the same thing if read "the Government of the United States shall guarantee to every State in the Union a republican form of government."

Then, as the Government of the United States is to execute this guaranty, the question arises, what constitutes the Government of the United States? The President does not constitute the Government the Congress does not constitute the Government, the judiciary does not constitute the Government, but all three together constitute the Government, and as this guaranty is to be executed by the Government of the United States it follows necessarily that it must be a legislative act The President could not assume to execute the guaranty without assuming that he was the United States within the meaning of that provision, without assuming that he was the Government of the United States Congress could not of itself assume to execute the guaranty without assuming that it was the Government of the United States, nor could the judiciary without a like assumption. The act must be the act of the Government and therefore it must be a legislative act a law passed by Congress submitted to the President for his approval, and perhaps in a proper case submitted to be reviewed by the judiciary

Mr. President, ... from the ... in assuming to execute this guaranty himself is assuming to be the Government of the United States, which he clearly is not, but only one of its co-ordinate branches, and, therefore, as the guaranty must be a legislative act it follows that the attempt on the part of the President to execute the guaranty was without authority, and that the guaranty can only be executed in the form of a law, first to be passed by Congress and then to be submitted to the President for his approval, and if he does not approve it then to be passed over his head by a majority of two thirds in each House. The law, then, becomes the execution of the guaranty and is the act of the Government of the United States

Mr. President, this is not an open question. I send to the Secretary and ask him to read a part of the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Luther vs. Borden, as reported in 7 Howard

The Secretary read as follows

> Moreover, the Constitution of the United States as far as it was provided for an emergency of this kind and authorized the general Government to interfere in the domestic concerns of a State, has treated the subject as political in its nature and placed the power in the hands of that department
>
> The fourth section of the fourth article of the Constitution of the United States provides that the United States shall guarantee to every State in the Union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion, and upon the application of the Legislature or the Executive when the Legislature cannot be convened, against domestic violence
> Under this article of the Constitution it rests with Congress to decide what government is the established one in a State For as the United States guarantees to each State a republican government, Congress must necessarily decide what government is established in the State before it can determine whether it is republican or not And when the Senators and Representatives of a State are admitted into the councils of the Union, the authority of the government under which they are appointed as well as its republican character, is recognized by the proper constitutional authority And its decision is binding upon every other department of the Government and could not be questioned in a judicial tribunal It is true that the contest in this case did not last long enough to bring the matter to this issue and as no Senators or Representatives were elected under the authority of the Government of which Mr. Dorr was the head, Congress was not called upon to decide the controversy. Yet the right to decide is placed there, and not in the courts

Mr. Morton In the opinion of the Supreme Court of the United States, delivered many years ago the right to execute the guaranty provided for in this clause of the Constitution, is placed in Congress and nowhere else, and therefore the necessary reading of the Constitution is confirmed by the highest judicial authority we have

Mr Johnson Do you read from the opinion delivered by the Chief Justice?

Mr Morton. Yes, sir, the opinion delivered by Chief Justice Taney He decides that this power is not judicial, that it is one of the high powers conferred upon Congress; that it is not subject to be reviewed by the Supreme Court, because it is political in its nature. It is a distinct enunciation of the doctrine that this guaranty is not to be executed by the President or by the Supreme Court, but by the Congress of the United States, in the form of a law to be passed by that body and to be submitted to the President for his approval, and should he disapprove it, it may become a law by being passed by a two-thirds majority over his head

Now, I will call the attention of my friend from Wisconsin to some other authority. As he has been pleased to refer to a former speech of mine to show that I am not quite consistent, I will refer to a vote given by him in 1864, on a very important provision. On the 1st of July, 1864, the Senate having under consideration, as in Committee of the whole, "a bill to guarantee to certain States whose Governments have been usurped or overthrown a republican form of government," Mr Brown, of Missouri, offered an amendment to strike out all of the bill after the enacting clause and to insert a substitute, which I will ask the Secretary to read.

The Secretary read as follows

> That when the inhabitants of any State have been declared in a State of insurrection against the United States by proclamation of the President, by force and virtue of an act entitled "An act further to provide for the collection of duties on imports and for other purposes" approved July 13, 1861, they shall be, and are hereby declared to be incapable of casting any vote for electors of President or Vice President of the United States or of electing Senators or Representatives in Congress, until said insurrection in said State is suppressed or abandoned, and said inhabitants have returned to their obedience to the Government of the United States, and until such return and obedience shall be declared by proclamation of the President, issued by virtue of an act of Congress hereafter to be passed, authorizing the same

Mr Morton, the honorable Senator from Wisconsin, voted for that in Committee of the Whole and on its final passage I call attention to the conclusion of the amendment, which declares that they shall be—

> Incapable of casting any vote for electors of President or Vice President of the United States, or of electing Senators or Representatives in Congress until said insurrection in said State is suppressed or abandoned and said inhabitants have returned to their obedience to the Government of the United States, and until such return and obedience shall be declared by proclamation of the President, issued by virtue of an act of Congress hereafter to be passed authorizing the same

Recognizing that a state of war shall be regarded as continuing until it shall be declared no longer to exist by the President, in virtue of an act of Congress to be hereafter passed. I am glad to find by looking at the vote that the distinguished Senator from Maryland (Mr Johnson) voted for this proposition, and thus recognized the doctrine for which I am now contending, that the power to execute the guaranty is vested in Congress alone and that it is for Congress alone to determine the status and condition of those States and that the President has no power to proclaim peace or to declare the political condition of those States until he shall first have been thereunto authorized by an act of Congress.

I therefore, Mr President take the proposition as conclusively established, both by reason and authority, that this clause of the Constitution can be executed only by Congress and taking that as established, I now proceed to consider what are the powers of Congress in the execution of the guaranty, how it shall be executed and what means shall be employed for that purpose The Constitution does not define the means It does not say how the guaranty shall be executed All that is left to the determination of Congress As to the particular character of the kind of means must be employed, that, I take it, will depend upon the peculiar circumstances of each case, and the extent of the power will depend upon the other question as to what may be required for the purpose of maintaining or guaranteeing a loyal republican form of government in each State I use the word "loyal," although it is not used in the Constitution, because the word loyal is an inhering qualification, not only in regard to persons who are to fill public offices but in regard to State governments, and we have no right to recognize a State government that is not loyal to the Government of the United States Now, sir, as to the use of means that are not prescribed in the Constitution, I call the attention of of the Senate to the eighteenth clause of section eight of the first article of the Constitution of the United States, which declares that:

> The Congress shall have power to make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers and all other powers vested by this Constitution in the Government of the United States or any department or officer thereof

Here is a declaration of what would otherwise be a general principle anyhow that Congress shall have the power to pass all laws necessary to carry into execution all powers that are vested in the Government under the Constitution As Congress has the power to guarantee and maintain a loyal republican government in each State, it has the right to use whatever means may be necessary for that purpose As I before remarked the character of the means will depend upon the character of the case In one case it may be the use of an army in another case it may be simply presenting a case to the courts, and having it tested in that way in another case it may go to the very foundation of the Government itself And I now propound this proposition that if Congress after deliberation, after long and bloody experience, shall come to the conclusion that loyal republican State governments cannot be erected and maintained in the rebel States upon the basis of the white population, it has a right to raise up and make voters of a class of men who had no right to vote under the State laws This is simply the use of the necessary means in the execution of the guaranty. If we have found after repeated trials that loyal republican State governments governments that shall answer the purpose that such governments are intended to answer cannot be successfully founded upon the basis of the white ... because the great majority of that population are disloyal then Congress has a right to raise up a new voting population for the purpose of establishing these governments in the execution of the guaranty I think ... We are not required to find in the Constitution a particular grant of power for this purpose, but we find a general grant of power authorizing us to use whatever means may be necessary to execute the first and we find that the Supreme Court of the United States has said that the judgment of Congress upon this question shall be conclusive that it cannot be reviewed by the courts: that it is a purely political matter, and therefore the determination of Congress, that raising up colored men to the right of suffrage is a means necessary to the execution of that power, is a determination which cannot be reviewed by the courts, and is conclusive upon the people of this country.

The President of the United States, assuming that he had the power to execute this guaranty, and basing his proclamation upon it, went forward in the work of reconstruction It was understood at that time—it was so announced, if not by himself at least formally by the Secretary of State, Mr Seward—that the governments which he would erect during vacation of Congress were to be erected as provisional only, that his plan of reconstruction and the work that was to be done under it would be submitted to Congress for its approval or disapproval at the next session. If the President had adhered to that determination I believe that all would have been well, and that the present state of things would not exist. But, sir, the Executive undertook finally to execute the guaranty himself without the co-operation of Congress. He appointed provisional Governors, giving to them unlimited power until such time as the new State governments should be erected He prescribed in his proclamation who should exercise the right of suffrage in the election of delegates. And allow me for one moment to refer to that He says in his proclamation

> No person shall be qualified as an elector, or shall be eligible as a member of such convention, unless he shall have previously taken and subscribed the oath of amnesty as set forth in the President's proclamation of May 29, A. D 1865—

Which was issued on the same day and was a part of the same transaction

> And is a voter qualified as prescribed by the constitution and laws of the State of North Carolina in force immediately before the 20th day of May, A. D. 1861.

The persons having the right to vote must have the right to vote by the laws of the State, and must, in addition to that, have taken the oath of amnesty. The President disfranchised in voting for delegates to the conventions from two hundred and fifty thousand to three hundred thousand men His disfranchisement was far greater than that which has been done by Congress. In the proclamation of amnesty he says:

> The following classes of persons are excepted from the benefits of this proclamation—

He then announced fourteen classes of persons:

> 1 All who are or shall have been pretended civil or diplomatic officers, or otherwise domestic or foreign agents, of the pretended confederate government.
>
> * * * * * *
> 13 All persons who have voluntarily participated in said rebellion, and the estimated value of whose taxable property is over twenty thousand dollars

And twelve other classes, estimated to number at the least two hundred and fifty thousand or three hundred thousand men, while the disfranchisement that has been created by Congress does not extend perhaps to more than forty five thousand or fifty thousand at the farthest. These provisional Governors, under the authority of the President, were to call conventions; they were to hold the elections, and they were to count the votes; they were to exercise all the powers that are being exercised by the military commanders under the reconstruction acts of Congress. After those Constitutions were formed, the President went forward and accepted them as being loyal and republican in their character. He authorized the voters under them to proceed to elect Legislatures, members of Congress, and the Legislatures to elect Senators to take their seats in this body. In other words, the President launched those State governments into full life and activity without consultation with or co-operation on the part of Congress.

Now, sir, when it is claimed that those governments are legal, let it be remembered that they took their origin under a proceeding instituted by the President of the United States in the execution of this guaranty, when it now stands confessed that he could not execute the guaranty. But even if he had the power, let it be further borne in mind that those constitutions were formed by conventions elected by less than one-third of the white voters in the States at that time, that the conventions were elected by a small minority even of the white voters, and that those constitutions thus formed by a very small minority have never been submitted to the people of those States for ratification They are no more the constitutions of those States to-day than the constitutions formed by the conventions now in session would be if we were to proclaim them to be the constitutions of those States without first having submitted them to the people for ratification How can it be pretended for a moment, even admitting that the President had the power to start forward in the work of reconstruction, that those State governments are legally formed by a small minority, never ratified by the people, the people never having had a chance to vote for them They stand as mere arbitrary constitutions, established not by the people of the several States, but simply by force of executive power.

And, sir, if we shall admit those States to representation on this floor and in the other House under these constitutions, when the thing shall have got beyond our keeping and they are fully restored to their political rights, they will then rise up and declare that those constitutions are not binding upon them, that they never made them and they will throw them off, and with them will go those provisions which were incorporated therein, declaring that slavery should never be restored and that their war debt was repudiated Those provisions were put into those constitutions, but they have never been sanctioned by the people of those States, and they will cast them out as not being their act and deed as soon as they shall have been restored to political power in this Government Therefore I say that even if it be conceded that the President had the power, which he had not, to start forward in the execution of this guaranty, there can still be no pretense that those governments are legal and authorized, and that we are bound to recognize them

Amalgamation Miscegenation

There is no political plum so melting in the mouth of a Copperhead politician as "negro equality." This is his stock in trade, his last investment in politics. He delights to dwell on the repugnant idea of amalgamation or miscegenation, and assures all who will hear him that this is what the country is coming to under the rule of the Republican party. He gloats with a horrid grin over the maudlin deception, while the guilt of which he so stoutly accuses others is on the garments of his own party. He attempts to hide the infamy of his own political acts, to conceal the [illegible]structive tendency of the measures of his own party and to divert attention from the great questions actually in issue, by this hypocritical concern for the purity of the Caucasian cuticle. It is humiliating to intelligent people to be compelled to meet this puling nonsense, but the course the "Democratic" organs pursue makes it [illegible] sometimes to meet them on their own ground. For the benefit of those Copperheads who are so fearfully exercised on these subjects, the following table is presented, showing the [illegible] of mulattoes, according the last census, free and slave, in each Southern State. This census, taken by the Marshals appointed by the Democratic Administration of James Buchanan, shows who the amalgamators and miscegenators actually are:

Kentucky	47,358
[illegible]	47,731
Maryland	24,913
Mississippi	37,391
[illegible]	23,188
North Carolina	44,798
South Carolina	25,314
Tennessee	41,873
Virginia	93,464
Georgia	38,904
[illegible]	6,185
Arkansas	14,049
Alabama	36,428
Total	510,393

The whole number of colored persons in the Southern States at the time this census was taken was [illegible]ly 4,000,000. From 1850 to 1860 the increase of mulattoes over the per cent. of former years was nearly 2½ per cent., showing conclusively that the Democracy had been at work. At the increased ratio of per cent., stated above, it would have taken no great length of time to [illegible] out the whole mass. When the last census was taken every eighth colored person in the entire South was a mulatto. The Abolitionists or "Black Republicans" cannot be charged with this wholesale miscegenation, for they were not allowed to live in the South. Who then are responsible? The locality indicates the responsibility. [illegible] swept the South in 1856 and Breckinridge in 1860, and Democracy always triumphed there until Democracy went into rebellion against the Government. In that land of pure Democracy, nearly thirteen per cent. of the colored population are mulattoes. Under these circumstances perhaps it is not surprising that these small Democratic politicians are so greatly concerned for the purity of the Caucasian cuticle. But they should not [illegible] the error of supposing that all men are in danger of becoming practical miscegenators like their own party friends in the South. Ten years ago Abraham Lincoln "protested against the [illegible] logic which concludes that because one does not want a black woman for a slave, he must necessarily want her for a wife. He need not have her for either. He can just leave her alone." This may be a violent supposition in the case of a Democrat, but it is true of all other men. We have before alluded to the fact that the mulattoes are distributed throughout the Southern States in nearly exact numbers with the Democratic voters there. Coincidences like this are certainly very remarkable, and come very near furnishing their own explanation.

[illegible] Authority against Rev. Joseph Smith.

It is the practice of sheets in the service of the "Lost Cause" to assert that the Republican party caused the war. Rev. Joseph Smith, with hypocritical words and Pecksniffian visage, asserts the same thing in every speech he makes. Their doctrine seems to be that the war might have been avoided, had the people of the free States humiliated themselves sufficiently to the slaveholders. But this was not what the rebels themselves said. They declared that they had contemplated and arranged for the rebellion for thirty years. Their representative men said that the revolt was not produced by the election of Mr. Lincoln or the non-execution of the fugitive slave law. They were determined to have a separate Government, based on the corner-stone of slavery. They declared that the ideas on which the Constitution of the United States was formed rested on the assumption of the equality of the races, and and were totally wrong. But the founders of the Southern Confederacy had set out to build a Government on a new theory. At the bottom of that theory was the great truth that the negro was not equal to the white man, and that slavery was his natural and normal condition. It will be seen by this restatement of the views of A. H. Stephens and other rebel leaders that the principles on which the rebel confederacy rested were exactly similar to those which now characterize the "Democratic" party. Also, that these principles are at war with the old Constitution and with the views of its framers, who held the doctrine of the equality of human rights. Secession was resorted to to carry out this new theory, and the war followed. This is a Southern view of the cause of the war. The rebels ought to know on what principles and with what purposes they acted. Rev. Joseph Smith is doubtless a pretty good Confederate authority; but a majority of his political friends would think him inferior to "Vice President" Stephens. Smith also frequently quotes Crittenden to prove his assertions, but it happens that Crittenden, as well as every other authority, is against him. In 1861, that venerable statesman introduced the following resolution in Congress, which was almost unanimously adopted:

Resolved, By the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States, That the present deplorable civil war has been forced upon the country by the disunionists of the Southern States, now in revolt against the constitutional government, and in arms around the Capital.

Yet the Copperhead prints keep up the cry, and their candidate for Congress perambulates the country reiterating the shallow falsehood, that the Republican party caused the war!

A colored man named Slade died recently at Washington. His funeral was attended by the President of the United States, the Mayor of Washington and a large concourse of citizens. The services were jointly performed by white and colored clergy, and the pall bearers were from both races. Here's "negro equality" for Abbott of the Albany Democrat. We should add that Slade left property valued at $100,000.

NEW YORK, April 20.—The Herald's Havana special contains the following Mexican news: Gov. Rubio's troops in Sinaloa, have deserted him. The rebel Gen. Martinez has 5,001 men. It is reported that a combination has been formed between Gov. [illegible] and Ex-Gov. Pesquiera. Gen. Corona was determined to use all his military power and authority for the settlement of the Sinaloa rebellion. Most of the people are reported in favor of a Northwestern Republic out of some Mexican States, but it is the policy of the government not to admit even the possibility of such a thing. An envoy of Negrete and Canales pronounced recently at Tampico in favor of Santa Anna, with a regency, but were snubbed. The rebels of Puebla have proclaimed in favor of Gen. Negrete, under the Constitution of 1857, thereby refusing to recognize the federal authority, ordering elections and proclaiming Ortega provisional President of Mexico.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 20.—Maurice Weil, of the firm of Weil & Son, was thrown from his horse on the Cliff House road on Saturday. He clung to the reins until he was kicked in the forehead by the horses. He died within half an hour after.

Yesterday morning a soldier at Ft. Point attempted suicide by jumping through a port hole and falling upon the rocks thirty feet below. He was terribly bruised, but not fatally injured. He had recently been sentenced to wear a ball and chain for two years, and this was the cause of his attempt at suicide.

In time of the war, a Baltimorean said to a New York friend: "You are Unionist,—I don't doubt it. But are you ready to fight for the Union? I am a secessionist, and am goin to fight for secession." The Democrats claim that they have always been Unionists, but none who adhered to the Democratic organization throughout the war were willing to fight for the Union. They all shrank from this test of their sincerity, and therefore their vaunted Unionism was worth nothing at all.

Tribulations of the Democracy

From the La Crosse Democrat (March 2)

PREPARING TO SELL OUT

"As was shown in the Times of yesterday morning, there is no substantial disagreement between the financial policies of Messrs. Seymour and Pendleton."—Chicago Times.

This is an unmistakable indication that all such weak kneed, milk and water, venal prints as the Chicago Times, are preparing to sell out to the bondholders. Such intimations as the above are thrown out to smooth the way. And Mr. Pendleton is to be sacrificed by them, with the same readiness that they surrender professed principles.

But there is no substantial disagreement between the financial policies of Messrs. Seymour and Pendleton, "you say, do you?"

Then you have deceived the people most egregiously about the character and effect of Mr. Pendleton's financial plan. You have told the people, and made them believe, that it was a measure of relief—that it was to lessen their burdens under the great debt, and have held it up to contrast with the gold paying policy advocated by the bondholders and their friends.

Governor Seymour comes out square for paying the bonds in full, and in gold. There is no denying that. If Mr. Pendleton's plan means that, then it is a great humbug, and he and his friends are working up a popularity for him on false pretences!

If his tickling the ears of the people with the proposition to pay the bonds in greenbacks, and holding up to odium the policy of gold for the bondholders and greenbacks for the people, means only that he is for returning to specie payments as speedily as possible, and that when the Government gets ready to redeem greenbacks with gold then he will pay the bonds in greenbacks, it is the veriest sham that ever was heard of. Of course, if a bondholder is paid in greenbacks and can immediately go to the sub-treasury and draw gold on them, he is paid in gold, for the greenback is simply an order on which he at once goes to the proper office and draws his gold if he wants it.

If this is all there is of the Pendleton plan, as the Times intimates, then "there is no substantial disagreement between the financial policies of Messrs. Seymour and Pendleton," for both are in favor of paying the bonds in gold, and both are on the side of the bondholders, and against the people.

And whether Mr. Pendleton is willing to be placed in this attitude before the country or not, it is evident that the Chicago Times is sliding into this position, and probably not without a consideration. It is a rule with the Times to do nothing without a quid pro quo. It is conspicuous among the other venal presses of the country for accommodating its professional political principles to its supposed pecuniary interests.

This is of very little interest now. Its power for mischief is so greatly curtailed since its grand negro suffrage fiasco, that it matters not much to the Democratic party what course the Times takes.

But it is of great importance to the people that they should not be misled by anybody.

They have vital interests at stake.

We deem it our highest duty to watch over their safety, and warn them of every danger.

It is perfectly manifest that the Times is selling out Mr. Pendleton, or that the latter is selling the tax-payers of the whole country.

If there is no more merit in his plan, no greater difference between his financial policy and that advocated by Governor Seymour than the Times claims, then most certainly Mr. Pendleton is misleading the Democratic masses to their ruin.

If he means to pay bondholders, in addition to what they have received, amounting to nearly or quite the principal of the sum originally advanced by them, two dollars and a half more in gold, for every dollar lent, as does Governor Seymour, then we say Heaven save the people from such friends as he.

If he means to pay the bondholders one dollar and seventy five cents in gold for every dollar lent, in addition to what they have already received as he would do if the bonds were paid in greenbacks to-day, at their present rate, he is then but a poor friend of the people, and a very good friend to the bondholders.

We beg the people to remember that "ETERNAL VIGILANCE IS THE PRICE OF LIBERTY."

From Mr. Geo. W. Johnson, who arrived here yesterday from Yaquina, we learn that the Union party of Benton county have nominated the following ticket: For Representatives, R. A. Bensell and Joseph Alexander; for Sheriff, Wm. Rodenour; for Clerk, B. W. Wilson; for Treasurer, D. C. Clark; for Superintendent of Schools, J. Woodward. The Union party in Benton County are confident of electing their ticket by a handsome majority.

THE STEAMER JOHN L. STEPHENS not lost! but has arrived at Portland, and brought to KOHN & FISHEL, the largest and best assortment of Gentlemen's Spring and Summer Suits, the latest style, and of the best material that has been offered in this city for years. The Ladies have not been forgotten. [illegible] Meeting.—The school meeting of District No [illegible] the Central School House April 20 1868 at [illegible] P. M. pursuant to adjournment Present [illegible] A. L. Lovejoy and A P Dennison and J [illegible] McCoy, School Clerk elect The meeting was called to order by A P Dennison Chairman of the Board of Directors.

The minutes of the adjourned meeting held April 6th 1868, were read by the Clerk and approved by the meeting.

The Chairman stated to the meeting that upon the adjournment of the last meeting a motion was pending upon a call for the yeas and nays upon a motion to levy a tax of one and a half mills for school purposes where upon the motion was withdrawn by leave of the second and after some discussion and disturbance the Chairman of the Board, Mr Dennison read the estimate of the [illegible] expense of the District for the ensuing year

John Garrison moved that a two mill tax be levied [illegible] upon remarks were made by several gentlemen [illegible] some confusion was created by persons present and Mr Garrison withdrew his motion to levy a two mill tax

Mr. Sutton moved that a Sergeant at Arms be appointed to preserve order which motion prevailed and the President appointed R. J. Ladd

A motion was made to adopt the statement and estimate of the Directors when several gentlemen arose and spoke upon the merits and subject matter

Mr John Work moved to strike out the estimate of the directors of $1 000 for maintaining a colored school

Pending this motion several speeches were made and, [illegible] the most prominent was John W Sutton who [illegible] the principle of repudiating the fund and there[illegible] resulting in driving the colored children into the other [illegible] among white children

Mr J G Chapman spoke against the motion and [illegible] to lay the motion on the table which prevailed [illegible] the motion was pending, Messrs King and R. J. [illegible] spoke in favor of Mr Work's motion Mr Shelly [illegible] spoke in favor of it

[illegible] Chapman moved that a tax of two and a half mills on the dollar be levied for school purposes for the [illegible] year, to supply the deficiency The motion [illegible] by yeas 27 to noes 25, upon a rising vote

And upon motion adjourned

The Mines of Oregon and Idaho —The San Francisco [illegible] Herald thus sums up the mining operations [illegible] Oregon and Idaho for the last winter

"The [illegible] mines about Althouse and Jacksonville in southwestern Oregon as well as those on Burnt and John Day rivers, and their tributaries have been paying fair wages through the winter A number of arrastras have been [illegible] quartz in the vicinity of Jacksonville with [illegible] results, and a renewed effort at operating the mill erected last year in the Bautism District leads to the belief that the lodes in that section of country can be worked with profit

The [illegible] of the quartz mills now running in Idaho have been satisfactory, the auriferous quartz in that territory yielding from $20 to $25 per ton A number of new mills will be erected the coming summer several of which will be of large capacity The Poorman New York, Golden Chariot Ida Elmore Mineer War Eagle and other well known lodes in the Owyhee country continue to turn out astonishingly rich ore, the shipment of [illegible] from that section having been about $500 000 for the last three months besides large quantities retained to serve the purposes of a currency A considerable amount of gold has been taken from the placers during the winter, and extensive preparations are being made for hydraulic washing and sluicing the coming summer which [illegible] will prove a prosperous season for trade for [illegible]"

Ship Building on Puget Sound —A friend just return[illegible] from Victoria via Puget Sound, gives us the following [illegible] of ship-building on the Sound "Government [illegible] yet established a navy yard on the Sound, yet the [illegible] of shipping there at several points makes a [illegible] showing At Steilacoom, Williamson & Co have a [illegible] nearly ready to launch of 200 tons fine [illegible], and to be rigged as a fore and after At Port [illegible] Meeck, Meiggs & Co. are completing a fine bark of large capacity 150 feet over all 37 feet beam 14 feet hold, single deck, will carry 600 000 feet of lumber. This vessel when completed will be the largest vessel ever built on the Pacific coast up to this time But Hinckney & Co. of Port Ludlow have one on the ways which when complete will surpass all others ever built in this [illegible] having 156 feet keel length, 180 feet over all [illegible] beam and 13½ feet hold to carry 650 000 feet [illegible] and modeled to be a very fast sailer a bark of the first class At this port also the steamer Libby is being re-built into a very fine and powerful tug 115 [illegible] with sharp model and nice finish A flat bot[illegible] at Port Townsend and another bark at Utsa[illegible] complete the list now on the ways in the Sound The [illegible] ture and shipping of lumber to San Francisco and foreign ports is the chief business of [illegible] Sound country, and at present is carried on largely, and with considerable profit"

Railroad on the Brain —If there is anybody who is not [illegible] that the people of Portland have got "railroad on the brain" and breaking ground on the train [illegible] are certain that such person is not intimately acquainted with the people of Portland To such incredulous and lamentably ignorant person we offer the following [illegible] as on the evening of the breaking ground [illegible] incontestible proof and without hesitation challenge him to controvert the fact

"The people of Portland were crazy again
With having "Railroad on the brain
And the multitude came at the sound of the drum
And were told of a day which would speedily come
When an Iron horse with a wooden tail
Would go through the land on a track of rail,
With a shriek and a roar and a terrible neigh,
Like an insane ass that had gone astray,
Making the trip in a single day
From the hills of the South to Portland bay
And another horse to him would neigh
Over the waters and far away"

There! if that don't settle the question, we'd like to ask, "what's the use of evidence?"

Willamette Precinct Primary —At the Union primary meeting in Willamette precinct, on Saturday [illegible] Sheppard and John Powell were elected delegates to the Union County Convention to be held on the [illegible] inst. Wm Love was nominated as candidate for [illegible] of the Peace and Isaac Hill for Constable The [illegible] by resolution instructed the delegates to use all [illegible] means to secure the nomination of Joseph Backus for Sheriff The following resolutions were also adopted

[illegible], That we heartily endorse the proceedings of [illegible] in the acts for the reconstruction of the States [illegible] in the late rebellion

[illegible], That we heartily endorse the platform of [illegible] enunciated by the Union State Convention March 24th and 25th, 1868

[illegible], That we are in favor of the most vigorous [illegible] in the administration of the affairs of our [illegible]

[illegible], That we support U S Grant as our candidate for the Presidency

Excavating and Filling —Mr R O Hara & Co commenced work yesterday, of excavating for the cellar of the brick building to be erected by Capt White at the corner of Front and Morrison streets Their contract is [illegible] cellar twenty six by seventy six feet area and [illegible] feet deep, directly on the corner The balance of the building, covering a larger area will not be provided with a cellar, and the excavation will therefore be only [illegible] sufficient for foundations, and to give free circulation of air under the floors The contractors take the dirt from the cellar and dump it under the New Columbia Hotel, the design being to fill up the lot eventually We learn that Messrs. O'Hara & Co consisting of eight [illegible], have engaged to do the excavating and filling on the contemplated improvement of B street and [illegible] to do that sort of work during the season. They are energetic men and deserve to succeed

[illegible] for San Francisco —When the Continental [illegible] last week, we were not able to procure a list of [illegible] shipped by her, and only get it now from [illegible] from which place the freight clerk obligingly [illegible] copy. The following is the list 21 453 qr sks [illegible] sks wheat, 2,617 boxes apples, 162 hf bbls [illegible], 160 cases bacon 107 gunnies bacon, 225 sks [illegible], 400 sks bran, 36 boxes eggs, 422 hf sks flour [illegible] lard, 35 pkgs butter, 5 bbls beef 2 bbls pork, 5 [illegible], 4 cases mdse 24 bbls beef and pork 70 sks [illegible]

The Live Yankee left last evening with 1 667 gunnies wheat, 7,400 qr sks flour 2,125 sacks oats and 197 hf bbls [illegible] aggregate of 650 tons

Wanted to Shoot Somebody —A man in a state of [illegible] was arrested yesterday and lodged in jail for [illegible] to shoot one of the sailors or long shore-men [illegible] in loading the Live Yankee He went on board with a shot gun which he pointed down the hatchway where the men was at work, but before he could bring his piece to bear, he was seized by the mate and another man on deck and put ashore He was evidently laboring under some hallucination in regard to the loss of some money which he imagined the sailor had taken and [illegible] His case will be examined this morning before the [illegible]

The Route to Olympia —The Rainier is now running [illegible] up the Cowlitz river, connecting with the Co[illegible] river steamer at Monticello on Monday and Friday of each week. The new route by steamer and stage from the Cowlitz Landing, has fifteen miles less land travel [illegible] quicker than the old route by land over the mountain [illegible], and consequently most of the travel now [illegible] that way. It is also less expensive and every way a more desirable route than the old one Passengers reach Olympia from the Landing in one day

A Dangerous Bridge —Mr Jamison informs us that one of the high bridges beyond the head of the Canyon west of the city, is in a condition to be extremely dangerous for [illegible] to cross. One of the supporting beams [illegible] off the piles and only supported by the braces [illegible] if they give way, as they are very liable to do under a heavy load, the team crossing would be precipitated [illegible] less than twenty five feet—a fall which could not result [illegible] than disastrously The supervisor of the [illegible] see to it

Railroad Camp —Mr Hart, the Superintendent of the west side railroad, was engaged yesterday in purchasing [illegible] out supplies for a camp to be established on the farm of Mr Terwilliger for the accommodation of the hands employed on the railroad Hereafter, the employees will board and lodge at the camp instead of coming to the city every night The company has erected a [illegible] shanty and furnished it with all necessary furniture and [illegible] the cooks will bring

REMEDIAL PROPERTIES.
Cures Dyspepsia Liver Complaint Sick and Nervous Headache General Debility Nervousness, Depression of Spirits Constipation, Colic Intermittent Fevers, Sea Sickness, Cramps and Spasms and all complaints of either sex arising from Bodily Weakness, whether inherent in the system or PRODUCED BY SPECIAL CAUSES

NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME, GENIAL and restorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind no deadly botanical element no fiery excitant but is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants

The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this Tonic and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs

Persons of feeble habit liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters The testimony on this point is conclusive, and from both sexes

As a Genuine Tonic HOSTETTER'S BITTERS produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated In cases of Constitutional Weakness Premature Decay and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age it exercises the electric influence In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-enforce and re-establish them

Last but not least It is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acrid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day

The undersigned who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise which commands here and in the markets of the interior a relatively higher price excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who by counterfeit or imitation of his mark seek to deceive the public palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters Nevertheless buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice

The Political Machine Characteristic Features of the New Hampshire Canvass—The Influence of Women in Politics

[Correspondence of the N Y Evening Post]

CONCORD N H February [illegible] varied phrases of a political canvass in the closely contested State of New Hampshire [illegible] of peculiar interest to one who is familiar with campaigns and elections as they are conducted in New York and the other [illegible] Though far from the political and business center of the country, and principally inhabited by those whose [illegible] are local, to a great extent it is a singular and noticeable fact that every man and woman in New Hampshire appears to have been born a politician and to have become [illegible] in early childhood, with the spirit that develops with maturer years, into a bitter and unrelenting partisanship. It is possible that much of the interest now felt in party success is attributable to the fact that for a number of years the Republicans and Democrats have divided the State so evenly that a change in the sentiments of a thousand voters would often have defeated the successful party of the previous year. Each recurring election has inspired the two parties with new hope and confidence in their strength, men have been selected as candidates for the local offices whose personal popularity and standing as citizens would throw an additional weight into the scale and no means have been neglected that would secure every vote obtainable by fair means.

The consequence of this extraordinary party vigilance has been that out of the entire voting population of the State the average Republican majority of the past seven years has been about three thousand, and has more often fallen short than exceeded even this low figure. The election of Governor Smith, who preceded the present incumbent, gave the Republican party a majority of six thousand but this was a single instance, and the circumstances connected with it are such that it can hardly be considered a mere party success.

The canvass which is made from year to year by the general committee of the two parties [illegible] an interesting feature of New Hampshire [illegible] complete and perfect party organization than that of both Republicans and Democrats throughout the State, cannot be found in the most closely contested county or township in the country. There are two clubs in each [illegible] trict, representing the opposing factions, who carefully canvass their immediate localities, record the name and party of every voter and forward the list to the headquarters at Concord. Here the names are transferred to the books of the committee, and the general estimates are placed beside [illegible] of preceding years. When the returns are in from all sections, the canvass is carefully revised by clubs, and the second estimate which rarely varies a dozen votes to a county from the first, is forwarded and recorded. Doubtful men are [illegible] watched by both parties and on the expression of any decided opinions their names are sent in as later acquisitions. So accurate is this annual canvass that it is possible to estimate the majority within a few hundred votes at least four or five weeks before the election. The absence of anything like a transient or floating population, the small size of the towns and the deep interest felt by everybody in the results of such elections, render such an organization a possibility in New Hampshire; whereas, in any of the more thickly populated States along the coast, or those in which large cities give majorities which decide the State election, it would be found wholly [illegible]

The [illegible] meetings are also conducted on a plan [illegible] to that section. No clap trap or torchlight [illegible] or pyrotechnic displays is necessary to call the people together, for they come without it, and sit patiently through the longest orations, provided the speakers are men whose position and record command respect. The pot house eloquence that suits the great unwashed of New York [illegible] with but small favor in New Hampshire. On the evening of a mass meeting which is never held out of doors, the hall is early filled with a patient an expectant audience, mainly [illegible] of the best and most influential citizens of the place, who come to learn new facts and [illegible] new ideas. Old and young assemble together, the patriarch and the boy whose first ballot is a happy anticipation, listening critically to what is said, and receiving the statements of the speakers at neither more nor less than their full value. Nowhere outside of New England can such an audience be found at a political meeting, and nowhere does the stump orator meet with more appreciative hearers than those whom he may truthfully address as the "intelligent voters of New Hampshire." A few of the "opposition" generally attend, but they are always orderly, and listen to what is said with as much courteous attention as do those who represent the party under whose auspices the meetings are held.

A sketch of the characteristic features of a political canvass in New Hampshire, in which no mention was made of the women and the part they take in it, would be as incomplete as a version of "Hamlet" in which that philosophical prince was omitted. The interest felt by the voting population in the [illegible] of party and the triumph of principle, is scarcely greater than that evinced by their wives and daughters, whose part in the contest is restricted to the exertion of a silent but powerful influence. Hampshire women show much intelligence, and more accurate information than is generally found among the representatives of a sex that is elsewhere accused of "jumping at conclusions," rather than of arriving at them by the usual inductive process. Their political principles are as sacred to them as their religious [illegible], and most of them are fully able to defend themselves and their position against the logic or the sophistry of those who differ with them.

At the mass meetings a liberal portion of the hall is exclusively devoted to them and on occasions of extraordinary interest they attend in strong force, listening attentively and applauding warmly. It is possible that much of the order and decorum characterizing these gatherings is attributable to the restraining influence of their [illegible] and certain it is that what is so fully recognized and countenanced by the ladies must ever be free from such that makes political associations so corrupting and demoralizing in their tendency in many parts of the country. If the long sought franchise is ever given to the women of America, it will be a satisfaction to know that in one State at least they will vote as intelligently and judiciously as many who claim the ballot as one of their fixed and inalienable rights.

The Jacksonville Sentinel, under the head of "why not?" says

We have seen a white congregation in this town, many of whom were Democrats bow their heads devoutly while a colored brother was down on his knees praying for them. Now if a "nigger" is good enough to kneel as an intercessor between a Democratic sinner and the Almighty, why in thunder is he not good enough to vote—a privilege not denied to the lowest blackleg in the country?

That quondam Johnson organ the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser is galled by the President's last conversation with Mack into these utterances. If Providence would kindly afflict Andrew Johnson with a good wholesome attack of lockjaw (not violent enough to hurt him but just sufficiently severe to keep his mouth shut for a year or so) what a blessing it would be to the country and to the President.

An essay in an English magazine on Wall Street and American Finance estimates the annual amount of money transactions in Wall street at between $15,000 000 000 and 16 000 000 000.

Never listen to flatterers [illegible] her daughter. Why mother how shall I know that they flatter without I listen? was the quick retort of the young miss.

Sawdust pills would effectually [illegible] many of the diseases with which [illegible] every [illegible]

John, did Mrs Green get the medicine I ordered? I guess so, replied John, for I saw crape on the door next morning.

THE OREGON NOMINEE FOR CONGRESS.—David Logan the Congressional nominee of the [illegible] party in Oregon, is the only son of Judge Logan of Springfield Illinois. He was born in North Carolina [illegible] at an early age. In 1849 he emigrated from Illinois to Oregon where he [illegible] ever since. In 18[illegible] he was the Republican candidate for Congress and was beaten by [illegible] 100 votes. In the fall [illegible] ran again on the same ticket for Congress and was only distanced fifteen or twenty votes. Logan was reared a Whig. When the Republican party succeeded the Whig he transferred his allegiance to it [illegible] never was devoted to the former party without reserve [illegible] with Congress and against Johnson for whom he has little regard [illegible] politically. He and his Democratic [illegible] Joseph Smith) are well known throughout the State and the race between them will [illegible] animated and interesting.

Logan is a lawyer by profession and [illegible] years of age. As a jury lawyer he [illegible] have no superior on the Pacific Coast. His strength is not in mere eloquence but [illegible] sagacity, intuition or what [illegible] we may call those facilities or elements [illegible] enable their fortunate possessor to understand [illegible] sympathize with and control the human [illegible] of his fellows.

If elected, he will take high rank in the House of Representatives as a debater particularly in that running, indiscriminate debate and hand to hand conflict, which so often decides in a moment the fate of measures which have cost years of labor and [illegible] to bring them to this point.

The Republican party have a small majority in Oregon, to which the Presidential canvass must give strength rather than otherwise. Logan's personal strength and popularity added to this must ensure his election. The third time is the charm.—S F Bulletin

Goon.—Henry Clay Dean closed a fl[illegible] sentence in a speech one night during the [illegible] vass in New Hampshire by asking any Republican in the audience to get up and say how he felt. A venerable farmer announced himself as a member of that party and to Dean's question replied thus: "I don't exactly know but it pears as if I felt like a sound egg in a bushel of rotten ones." Dean did not proceed with his catechism or his speech.

Mr H W SHIPLEY Sir [illegible] Leffel wheels [illegible] your [illegible] Leffel [illegible] I have [illegible] the most satisfactory results. I have subjected it to some severe tests [illegible] log which squared 15 inches [illegible] the planer with a [illegible] knife [illegible] of an inch depth without [illegible] the least slacking the speed. After thorough tests of both wheels I am satisfied that your wheel with gates [illegible] gives as much power as the Leffel with gates one third open. At half gate your wheel gives double the power of the Leffel at half gate. At full gate the power of yours exceeds that of the Leffel by from ten to twelve per cent. At quarter gate the Leffel holds no comparison with yours at quarter gate

N B Mr Shipley was not present at either of the trials of his wheel, he being sick at the first and absent from the State at the second trial

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who with bogus sworn to certificates dupe the [illegible] Some of the self styled doctors whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco [illegible] their places are tradesmen and [illegible] to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, [illegible] makers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory, and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but you will find their former occupations in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863. The only way to avoid them is to make enquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets, for as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr Gibbon does not deceive [illegible] by exhibiting bogus titles certificates pretended [illegible] letters etc. Dr Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat disease [illegible] that he [illegible] to cure.
